THE TROY MURDER MYSTFRY. Developments yesterday in the tragedy of Teal Pond, near Troy, N. Y., nto whose swampy shallows the body of pretty 19-year-old Hazel Drew was flung after she had been mysteriously murdered, showed conclusively that she was lured to her death.

The authorities, investigating the crime have unearthed certain facts which they declare lead to no other possibility than that the girl was persuaded to start for the home of her uncle, who lives not far from where she was found dead, on a pretext to get her in the lonely part of Rensselaer county.

It is now declared that the assassin or assassins of the pretty young woman known and arrests will be made.

The selection by the murder or murderess of a lonely spot for the con-cealment of the body and efforts to convey the impression that the girl jumped into the lonely pond to end her life proved baffling only for a time. But the murderer's subsequent demeanor—the guilty conscience offsetting the precautions against detention—have resulted in the weaving of a web so closely about the suspected man that but few strands are needed until the net is drawn.

Marks upon Hazel Drew's body indi-cate clearly that she died while making a brave struggle to defend her honor.

A string tied about her neck indicates that the murderer and his accomplice, fearing the blow on the back of the head had not been sufficient to end her life had not been summer to end her the and forever seal her lips, made sure, doubly sure, by strangling her. The casting of the body into the water was as much an added further precaution against her living to disclose the identity of the fiends who attacked her as was to hide the evidence of crime.

DOUBLE SUICIDE.

Both August Gross, who on Monday, without known cause, shot and fatally wounded an inoffensive meat peddler, named James Kirk, and his younger brother, Fred Gross, near Benton Harhor, Mich., committed suicide after a pitched battle with Sheriff Tennant and a posse of seven men. None of the officers was injured. The Gross brothers ar both supposed to have been insane.

shooting Kirk Monday, Gross barricaded himself in his farm house, and through the night exchanged occasional shots with the crowd of farmers and deputies who were guarding the premises to prevent his escape.

His younger brother, Fred, joined the or zed man in the defense of the house, and the aged mother of the two men was also in the house throughout the night and during the battle with the officer yesterday.

The posse drove to the Gress farm in two automobiles from Benton Harbor this morning. Shortly before their arrival the Gross brothers had rushed from the house and taken positions with their guns near the front fence. After about fifteen shots had been fired at the officers, who were replying with riffes and shotguns, August left his cover and ran Fred was wounded through the leg, and when he found that he was unable o follow, fired a bullet through his own head, dying instantly. Expecting Auclosed in on the house, entered it, and ound the crazed man dead on his own bed. A single shot from a shotgun had penetrated his heart.

TROLLEY CARS DYNAMITED. Two trolley cars of the Ches er, Pa., Traction Company, against which a strike was inaugurated three months ago, were wrecked late Monday night, but, fortunately, no one was seriously injured. One car was wrecked at Norwood, some distance from Chester, presumably by a stick of dynamite. The car was badly damaged and a deputy sheriff, who was riding in the trolley, was cut by flying glass. Several women passengers were badly frightened by the explosion and one of them fainted. The other car was wrecked within the city limits and the motorman was knocked from the platform, but he sustained no injury. The front of the car was shattered. The employes of the traction company struck because their wages had been cut. For a time the lines of the company were completely tied up and the strike was attended with considerable violence, neces sitating the presence of four troops of the state police. The company has been operating its cars, but carried few passengers, the people either sympathizing with the strikers or fearing injury through attacks such as those of las
